

Former Broughton High School/City of Edinburgh Music School student, Oscar Gormley graduated in July at the Royal Academy with a First Class degree in historical performance. For his final recital he deployed about a dozen of his peers to support his programme which ranged from the baroque to modern and he got a prize for one of the pieces; the Narcissus one (with the percussion).

At present, he is doing a combination of teaching kids (piano, recorder, music theory, etc) and orchestral performances (mainly on baroque bassoon), and working in the Royal Opera House.

His main project though is his band SUN SILVA. There are 4 in the band, all RAM lads with classical training and Oscar is the songwriter (pictured far right). They are gigging a lot and about to sign a publication deal. However, their main coup to date is that their first single was selected for the soundtrack of Fifa19. If you google/twitter/facebook SUN SILVA you'll hear the track. So far it's had 100,000 downloads on Spotify.

Very well done Oscar, and all the best for the future from all of us in the Music School and at Broughton.
